MR. HAMMOND [illegible]

MEMBERS OF BRITISH SOUTH AFRICAN COMPANY TOURING THE WEST FOR IDEAS SIR CHARLES METCALF AND OTHERS IN PARTY.

"The irrigation system in use in Colorado is the best we have seen anywhere, and is well worthy of adaptation for use in the development of South Africa," said J. F. Jones, one of the joint managers of the British South African company, at the Antlers hotel last night.

"I have also been impressed with the manner of railroad construction in the state," he continued "and with the development of the mining resources.

"Your railroad engineers have had some of the hardest propositions imaginable to tackle and the mines in the Cripple Creek district show that the development of the mineral resources has been carried on in a most systematic and praiseworthy manner."

Mr. Jones is here with a party of London capitalists, all of whom are interested in the British South African company.

It includes Sir Charles Metcalf, consulting engineer of the Rhodesian railways and of the British South African company; G. A. Hobson, Sir Charles Metcalf's business partner; Robert Benson, president of the Charter Trust and agency of London, the financing corporation of Rhodesia, and Ansel Oppenheim, vice president of the Chicago and Great Western railway.

Came With Hammond.

While not a member of the party, John Hays Hammond of the Guggenheim Exploration company conducted them over the Cripple Creek district yesterday, showing them the mines in the great gold camp. Mr. Hammond brought the gentlemen to Colorado and will be with them until they leave.

The British South African company has a charter from the British government giving to it the land and resources of the province of Rhodesia in South Africa. It is in this manner that the British government develops its colonies, and the British South African company is really a developing company. It constitutes the government of Rhodesia, and the action of its officers constitute the the governmentl actions of the colony, the board of directors acting as a parliament and the various officers filling the functions of ordinary civil officials in addition to their duties as the officers of a corporation.

Development of Rhodesia.

Rhodesia is one of the most promising of the English colonies in South Africa, and has a population of approximately 1,020,000, of which number 1,000,000 are natives and the balance English and other white colonists.

About 2,000 miles of railroad have already been built and additional lines are being planned.

The mineral resources of the colony are very promising, consisting of gold,

[illegible] RESENTFUL

ILL FEELING AGAINST ENGLAND AND UNITED STATES ON ACCOUNT OF SUPPOSED SYMPATHY TOWARD JAPAN.

London, Oct. 26.—Special dispatches from St. Petersburg represent a growing ill feeling in Russia against both England and the United States in consequence of the supposed sympathy of the countries for Japan. This feeling finds expression in the Novoe Vremya, which, in commenting on the decision of the Alaska boundary tribunal, says it hopes that Canada will now sever the ties connecting it with Great Britain.

The Oya Vrikana maintains a bellicose attitude, expressing the opinion that neither Great Britain nor the United States will interfere and Russia was better prepared for war. This paper urges that Japan had better be crushed without delay.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—United States Commercial Agent M. M. Langhorne is at present here on his way back to America from Port Dalny, the new port on the eastern shore of the Liao-tung peninsula, about 20 miles from Port Arthur. He says that on the railway trip from Port Dalny, he counted seven trains bearing soldiers going east. Port Dalny is not progressing, according to the commercial agent, the trade remaining at New Chwang and Port Arthur. The latter place is favored by Viceroy Alexief.

COME TO RAISE FUNDS.

Bulgarian Missionaries Will Leave Vienna for New York to Get Money for Destitute Macedonians.

Vienna, Oct. 25.—The two Bulgarian missionaries named Furnajieff and Popoff are about to leave here for New York for the purpose of making a tour of the United States to raise funds for destitute Macedonians. They are graduates of American colleges, the former having studied at Princeton and the latter at Hamilton, N. Y.

According to reliable private reports the condition of internal affairs in Bulgaria is alarming. All the revolutionary bands which were operating in Macedonia have returned to Bulgaria. The streets of Sofia are thronged with insurgents who beg for food and shelter. It is feared that these insurgents will create disturbances in the country before long unless a decided improvement is effected in Macedonian affairs. The Bulgarian government is said to be demoralising its reserves with great reluctance and apprehensions are expressed in many quarters that the Turks will take advantage of the situation and attack Bulgaria at about the time of the approaching election when the Bulgarian government will be obliged to send the reserves to their homes.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES.

London, Oct. 25.—King Edward has approved the appointment of Sir Henry Mortimer Durand as British ambassador to the United States.

PLAN TO ARBITRATE THE COPPER WAR

H N and H Society
Capitol Bldg [illegible]

Senator C[illegible] Toole, Joseph Dixon, [illegible] and Senator Gibson Mediate Between Copper Interests.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 25.—The most important development in the copper war situation today was the fact that Judge William Clancy decided to forego his intention of shooting elk while thousands of idle miners are looking to him for whatever relief is possible. Judge Clancy today stated that he will not leave the city and will do all he can to expedite the appeal from his decision to the supreme court.

A local committee of the Miners union waited upon the judge this afternoon and had a long consultation with him on the subject of postponing his hunting trip. The judge had already informed Mayor Mullins that he had decided to give up the trip. The fact that a number of armed men were around the depot last night when it was reported the judge intended leaving the city, caused the mayor to take extra precautions looking to the personal protection of Judge Clancy.

Every corner of the city is being guarded closely and a number of special policemen have already been impressed into service. All Saturday night four policemen guarded the home of Judge Clancy and two the home of Judge Harney. Mayor Mullins said today that he would employ 500 special policemen if he found the situation warranted it. While there have been no unusual demonstrations, the mayor says he will take every precaution to prevent anything that might incite riot or disorder.

Smoke is still issuing from the Colorado and Washoe smelters but it is stated that fires would probably be drawn in both plants tonight or tomorrow. The engineers and pumpmen at all the properties of the Amalgamated company are still being employed in keeping the mines drained of water.

The city tonight, though thronged with idle crowds, is quiet, the announcement of Judge Clancy's abandonment of the hunting trip apparently having exercised a soothing influence.

Indignation is still rife over the departure from the city of John MacGinnis.

Late last night an effigy of Judge Clancy was discovered hanging in one of the principal streets of Great Falls, where the big electrolytic smelters of the Boston and Montana company are located.

"The perpetrators of the deed are unknown to the police.

Last evening telegrams were sent from Great Falls to Senator W. A. Clark in this city, Governor J. K. Toole at Helena and Representative Joseph Dixon at Washington and J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern asking each of them if they would act with the other gentlemen named and Senator Gibson in an effort to mediate between the warring copper interests with a view to keeping open the mines and smelters of the Amalgamated company. The telegrams were the outcome of the consultations of the Businessmen's association of Great Falls and are as follows:

"Senator W. A. Clark, Butte:

"Butte, Oct. 24.

"Would you act as a member of mediation committee between warring copper companies of this state, other members to be Senator Gibson, Governor Toole, Congressman Dixon and President Hill of the Great Northern company in an endeavor to open mines and smelters of the Amalgamated company in Montana."

Before taking any steps in the matter Senator Gibson was consulted. He approved the plan and said he would be only too happy to do anything that he could in the matter.

Late last night Senator Clark was heard from in the following telegram:

'Butte, Oct. 24.

"Herbert Strain, president of the Businessmen's association, Great Falls:

"Will be glad to act with the gentlemen named and see what may be done. W. A. Clark."

The thought of the citizens who initiated this plan was that this committee could act between the parties to the copper war and the courts in any way that they might think best as soon as they could consult with each other.

From President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern the following message was received tonight:

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 225.

"Herbert Strain, President Businessmen's association, Great Falls:

"Message received. Would be very much pleased to assist, but there must be some indication of willingness on the part of the disputants or efforts in the direction proposed will accomplish nothing. James J. Hill."

St. Paul, Oct. 25.

"U. S. Senator Paris Gibson, Great Falls:

"Message received. Have received message from Herbert Strain and can only add that if I can be of any assistance I shall be only too glad to do everything in my power to relieve situation. James J. Hill."

A telegram was also received from Governor O'Toole signifying his intention of joining in efforts to effect peace between warring copper interests.

F. Augustus Heinze, in a statement to the public today says that the offer of the Butte Miners union of $500 a share for the MacGinnis stock in the Boston & Montana company is just half of what Mr. MacGinnis was offered for his stock about a year ago. Tonight a meeting of the executive committee of the Butte Miners union is being held behind closed doors.

DOWIE AND HIS RESTORATION HOST

WERE LET SEVERELY ALONE BY GOTHAMITES AND PASSED A QUIET DAY—NO NEW FEATURES.

New York, Oct. 25.—Today was the quietest one that Dowie and his host have passed since their invasion of New York. Three services were held, one in the morning, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, at the two latter of which the garden was fairly filled. The proceedings were marked by the absence of any attempt at disturbance. The afternoon sermon presented no novel features, being devoted to Dowie's customary denunciation of Masonry and Roman Catholicism.

KILLED BY WIFE

Colored Man at Denver Tried to Shoot His Wife and Met Death Himself. His Wife and Met Death Himself at Her Hands.

Denver, Oct. 25.—Jennie Davis shot and killed her husband, Beverly W. Davis, at their home, 2332 Market street, today. Both parties are colored. Davis was jealous of his wife and after a quarrel during which he struck her several times, Davis secured a revolver with the avowed intention of killing her.

In the struggle which followed the woman secured the weapon and fired, killing Davis almost instantly.

A FATAL RUNAWAY ACCIDENT NEAR DURANGO

Denver, Oct. 25.—A special to the Republican from Durango, Colo., says the 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Conrad Webster was instantly killed and the mother so badly injured that her death is momentarily expected, in a runaway near their home a short distance from Fort Lewis.

PANAMA REVOLUTIONISTS ACTIVE

Small Party of Rebels Landed at Calovebora and Are Being Closely Watched.

Panama, Oct. 25.—A revolutionary force consisting of about 70 men landed on or about October 11 at Catalina, the port at the mouth of the Calovebora on the Atlantic coast of Colombia and after having traveled a certain distance into the interior returned to the coast and marched toward Peno Nome.

This expedition, according to information in the hands of Governor Obaldia is under the leadership of Frederico Barrera, Lugo and Juan Antonio Calcedo. Barrera was one of the liberal revolutionists who took part in the capture of Colon in 1901, and Lugo was one of the military chiefs in the Domingo Diaz expedition of 1901. Nothing is known of Calcedo.

It is believed that the revolutionists were expecting reinforcements but that they were disappointed in not finding them and consequently returned to the coast.

Government forces under Major Tascon are to sail this afternoon to chase the insurgents.

The enemy has had to travel through a rough and wild country and it is not believed that they will be able to stand before the well disciplined troops under Major Tascon. Little importance is attached to the movement.

This outbreak does not appear to have the indorsement of Liberals in Panama, several of whom have protested against it and have offered their services to Governor Obaldia.

Advices received by the governor from the department of Cauca and Bolivar state that Generals Diaz, Morkun and Duendia and other prominent Liberal leaders purposed starting a revolutionary movement but were arrested before they were able to do so.

For several weeks there have been rumors of an approaching revolutionary movement in Colombia. The political horizon of the country is clouded and there are many signs of unrest arising probably from the discussion and opposition to the canal project and approaching presidential campaign and the heavy deficit in the treasury.

It has been reported that General Pedro Nolispina, a presidential possibility, had become seriously implicated in a projected revolutionary outbreak somewhere on the isthmus because of political opposition on the part of President Marroquin. General Benjamin Herrera and other prominent leaders are said to be associated in this move.

The government is said to have caused the arrest of several prominent liberal leaders in Bogota and a number of Liberals were arrested at Cartagena on October 16. Other such arrests are looked for.

Bogota, the capital of Colombia, has been said to be threatened with serious disorders arising in the desire of the government to close congress before the approaching elections. The government is said to have placed an armed guard in the capitol where congress meets and this action caused much excitement.

PAY DAY FOR THE MILITIA

Men at Camp Goldfield Made Happy.

PAID FOR TWENTY DAYS

Special to the Gazette.

Camp Goldfield, Oct. 25.—Camp Goldfield was a busy place today. Nearly all of the drills were postponed on account of today being the long-looked-for pay day of the militia. All of the companies stationed at Camp Goldfield, as well as officers, received their pay today for the first twenty days' service, and tonight the men are happy.

Tomorrow morning the soldiers at the sub-camps, El Paso, Elkton and Cripple Creek samplers will receive their money, thus finishing all the troops now in the field.

The companies receiving money today were the following: Companies A, B, K, E and G of the First regiment and A, D and I of the Second regiment, with battery A, troops B, C, and D, First cavalry, hospital corps, signal corps and paymaster general's department first brigade officers.

The following amounts are allotted to the various organizations to correspond with their pay of the first twenty days of the campaign:

Adjutant general's department	$1,416.26
Paymaster general and signal corps	215.10
Paymaster general's dept	326.68
Headquarters First squadron	120.10
Company A, First infantry	1,291.20
Company B, First infantry	1,941.53
Company C, First infantry	1,205.03
Company E, First infantry	1,556.48
Company F, First infantry	1,496.03
Company G, First infantry	3,058.00
Company H, First infantry	1,821.60
Company I, First infantry	2,091.96
Company K, First infantry	1,708.07
Company L, First infantry	1,487.45
Company A, Second infantry	557.90
Company B, Second infantry	927.34
Company D, Second infantry	1,778.74
Company H, Second infantry	1,385.55
Company I, Second infantry	1,345.18
Battery A, First infantry	1,632.97
Hospital corps	1,566.77
Troop B, First cavalry	1,652.98
Troop C, First cavalry	2,092.16
Troop D, First cavalry	1,515.20
Headquarters and staff First infantry	694.53
Staff and band Second infantry	865.83
Cooks pay roll	690.00
Coloned Edward Verdeckberg	186.66
Major W. R. Armington	122.23
Major McClelland	111.11

The above list with amounts from $37.34 to $244.45 cover the list of salaries of General Bell's staff upon which are some twenty odd members, mostly colonels.

It is understood that General Chase's brigade headquarter's pay roll was not passed by the military board when the above were, the delay being due to the fact that the rolls were at Camp Goldfield and the officers were detailed on the court martial at Denver and were not presented to the military board at the time of the others.

General Sherman Bell did not arrive in camp today as was expected. Colonel Edward R. Verdeckberg left this afternoon for Denver to attend the court martial, which convenes tomorrow morning at the state house, leaving Lieutenant-Colonel Davis in command of the troops now in the field.

WORSHIP IN OPEN AIR

Feature of Dedication Services Yesterday

NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH

HUNDREDS ATTEND CEREMONY AT WHICH RT. REV. BISHOP MATZ OFFICIATED IN MANITOU YESTERDAY.

On the spot where 30 years before, the Indian set up his tepee and built his camp fire, a church was dedicated yesterday.

The Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Hope it was named, and as the bishop sprinkled holy water upon it and chanted psalms and blessings, the hundreds who stood about him in the open air were worshipful. With bowed heads they looked upon the ground or reverently at the mountains; some up at the "castle" where the fathers and sisters dwell, or out upon the roadway where many carriages had stopped, and, no doubt, many in the crowd were carried back into the past when there was no church and no bishop to bless one.

In Early Days.

Maybe they were thinking it was on just such a day that the Redskins had come down Ute pass terrorizing everyone and committing the depredations that had made western history. But now all was changed—even the mountains were not so rugged—the tramp of civilization over them had beaten paths that told of progress; the peak looked less forbidding, and the little creek had taken on a more respectful silence. The war-whoop of the past was no more; instead the people were hearing the strains of an orchestra and the volume of 70 voices singing "The Litany of the Saints."

It was all very impressive, the dedication of the new Catholic church at Manitou.

Bishop Matz, in his pontificial robes, and other church dignitaries grouped about him, the crowd in the open air that afterward found its way within the church, the building itself, with its rich interior of stained glass, perfect statuary and beautiful paintings, the service of formal worship, the great choir and music, all were part of the most notable day in the history of the Catholic church in Manitou.

Open Air Services.

The services began at 10:30 o'clock. The Rt. Rev. Bishop Matz, robed in gold coat and lace surplice over purple, and attended by clergymen of high rank, walked around the building sprinkling holy water and chanting the psalms. Turning to the crowd of worshipers he addressed them, saying that he dedicated the church in the name of Our Lady of Perpetual Hope. Then

PLEA FOR GREATER SYSTEM IN CHARITIES

Rev. E. Evans Carrington Says Its Field Is Large and Annual Report Shows That Much Was Accomplished During Year.

RECEIPTS FOR YEAR	$5,587.02
NUMBER OF MEALS SERVED	11,010
NUMBER OF BEDS FURNISHED	3,400
NUMBER OF HALF-RATE TICKETS SUPPLIED	302

An audience that filled the spacious auditorium of the handsome new Methodist church was present at the fifth annual meeting of the Colorado Springs Associated Charities last night. It was a very successful meeting and although it was started late, the major portion of the audience remained to the close.

The feature of the meeting was the annual report and address of the secretary and manager, Rev. E. Evans Carrington, which was an earnest plea for a larger and broader charity work in this city.

The report included interesting statistics and told of several new departures undertaken during the year. The latest, and one which has not been announced before, is the establishment of a hospital for the poor sick at the City Home on West Vermijo street. The hospital has but just started, but promises to develop into one of the most appreciated features of the associated charities organization. The ladies and young people of the First Baptist church have been largely instrumental in starting this feature and have fitted up the front upstairs rooms of the City Home for hospital purposes.

On the Platform.

Rev. James B. Gregg, D. D., of the First Congregational church, who is president of the organization, had charge of the meeting and on the platform were Rev. Edward Braislin, D. D., of the First Baptist church; Rev. Benjamin Brewster of Grace Episcopal church, Mrs. Elizabeth Cass Goddard, Mr. Richard Lee Kennedy and Rev. C. B. Wilcox of the First Methodist church.

After Mr. Carrington had finished his report Dr. Gregg called on Dr. Braislin, who spoke briefly but forcibly in support of the Associated Charities and, incidentally, paid a high tribute to the secretary and manager for his wise administration and consecrated devotion to the work.

Dr. Braislin was followed by Mr. Richard Lee Kennedy, who gave a short address outlining the scientific basis upon which the society is established.

Dr. C. B. Wilcox was the last speaker and said but a few words on account of the lateness of the hour. He emphasized the plea of Mr. Carrington for a larger work through the co-operation of the churches and spoke of the value the organization had been to him.

Dr. Gregg and Dr. Braislin also related incidents of the effectiveness of the Associated Charities from their personal experiences.

The meeting closed with the doxology by the audience and the benediction pronounced by Rev. Benjamin Brewster.

Subscription cards were handed out at the door by the ushers and it is hoped that there will return with an assurance of resources sufficient to justify the organization in starting on its sixth year in a larger measure as suggested in the report of Mr. Carrington.

Mr. Carrington's Report.

The report, in substance, was as follows:

"The fiscal year just closed has been full of difficulties and anxieties, financial and other," said Mr. Carrington in beginning his report, "but we have pulled through in better shape than I feared would be the case, for which we are profoundly thankful.

"Modern philanthropy covers every phase of social need and a charity organization, such as ours, is expected by some to deal with every form of need, even to the impossible. It may help us to appreciate the scope of the work to be done and the inadequacy of the means at hand to accomplish it if we present for consideration the three general phases of the problem confronting us:

"First, the corrective, in which we should seek to remove the social and economic causes of the conditions that produce poverty, pauperism and crime. This is the field for the social and economic reformer.

"Second, the constructive, which calls for intelligence culture; a knowledge of human nature, familiarity with social science, pertinacity and the Christian grace of self-sacrifice for the dependents have to be built up into a new life, placed in a new social religious atmosphere, inspired with new ideals and led to a recognition of Christian ethics in daily life.

"Third, material relief to the needy, regardless of what may be the cause of their need.

Face to Face With Poverty.

"When men, women and children are hungry, poorly clad or otherwise in distress, the first demand upon us is material relief.

"All are now considered worthy of help in some form, our object being their social elevation, regardless of the degree of their blameworthiness.

"It is objected by some that relief funds are in themselves dangerous because people are taught to rely upon them. That dogma has had its day, and we are now recognizing the fact that there are those in every community who must rely upon it, and the serious task before us is to ascertain who are the legitimate claimants and to what extent relief should be given to the end that it may be adequate.

"We sometimes have to refuse applicants material aid because to us there may appear other and better means of helping them.

"And here becomes apparent the need of our day: the active co-operation of the churches which have a common interest in restoring the dependents to a normal family life. This co-operation is a pressing necessity, in view of the many sick poor within our gates.

Value of System.

"This grandest of all ministries should be done in a systematic way—not spasmodic and sporadic. Denominational selfishness seeking its own glory at the expense of the largest measure of helpfulness and thorough efficiency is little less than a social crime. This, of course, has reference to the claims upon the churches outside their own membership.

"I am sure you will be as glad to hear as I am to tell, that ladies representing several churches are already in practical co-operation with this object in view, and I feel assured that very soon the whole city will be covered in a systematic way through the agency of these godly women who, while forming no part of our organization, yet recognize in us a central board through which duplication and unnecessary labor and expense may be obviated.

The Friendly Visitor.

"Much has been said and made of the 'friendly visitor' in recent years, but I am free to confess that I rely more upon the friendly visiting of the consecrated Christian women, because of both the

TEN [illegible] LIVES [illegible] LOST

Blasting in New York City Subway Causes Disastrous Cave In.

New York, Oct. 25.—Ten lives were lost by the cave-in of one of the walls of the subway tunnel at 195th street last night and four persons were badly injured. All of the dead and injured were workmen and most of them Italians.

The Dead and Injured.

Following is a list of their names:

TIMOTHY SULLIVAN, foreman.
WILLIAM SCHUTTE, electrician.
GUISSEPPE BARONE.
STANZION BRUNE.
LOUIS TIPPIO.
Five unidentified Italian laborers.

Injured:

Juno Pasequale, Balasto Velantio, Alphonse Armatello, Juno Baki.

The accident was the most disastrous that has occurred in the construction of the subway. At the point where the cave-in occurred a gang of 20 men were at work in the tunnel, which is about 110 feet below the surface.

Seams in the Rock.

Rufus C. Hunt, general superintendent of the tunnel work said today that two converging seams had appeared in the tunnel during the day Saturday. The presence of these seams however, was not believed to indicate any more dangerous character of the rock than had previously been encountered, although it was thought necessary to prop the roof with a number of upright timber braces.

Several blasts were set off in rapid succession by electricity, loosening large quantities of earth and rock. About ten minutes elapsed to allow the smoke to clear away before Timothy Sullivan, the foreman and electrician Schutte advanced, the latter intending to string wires and hang electric lamps to light the way. They were followed by 18 workmen. The gang had reached the broken stone when a rumbling sound was heard. With a deafening crash hundreds of tons of rock fell on the men at the face of the boring.

Alarm Was Given.

An alarm was telephoned generally to the police headquarters and reserves and ambulances were immediately sent to the scene.

A pathetic incident was the finding of the body of Foreman Sullivan wedged and jammed far beneath the stone. It was not recovered until long after daylight. From about 3 o'clock in the morning his ten-year-old son, Samuel had stood close by and could not be induced to leave until the body of his father had been extricated.

Many Italian women congregated weeping, lamenting and rushing to the tram each time it brought forth a body.

Three Arrests Made.

Rufus C. Hunt, superintendent, and Richard Boyers, general foreman for John B. McDonald, the contractor, who is building the tunnel were arrested as soon as they reached the scene of the disaster, but being experts in tunnel work and blasting, were permitted to direct the work of rescue. Later, a magistrate remanded them to the coroner, who held them in $10,000 bail, each.

Coroner Jackson said he believed the accident was caused by criminal negligence. The seams that appeared Saturday are believed to have been about the great rock that fell directly in the center of the excavation. As soon as this boulder, acting as a keystone, was released, the stones on both sides followed it.

From men who worked in the tunnel it was learned that props had been used to hold up the roof. The heavy timbers 12x12 inches were crumbled like toothpicks beneath the great weight of the cave-in.

ROOSEVELT ON SERVICE

Powerful Address Before Missionary Society.

AGGRESSIVE DECENCY

IS THE KIND NEEDED IN BOTH PRIVATE AND PUBLIC LIFE—STRONG PLEA FOR CIVIC RIGHTEOUSNESS.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Intelligent service to God and to the state was the subject of an address by President Roosevelt to the 7,000 people who attended the public open-air missionary service at Mount St. Albans this afternoon on the grounds of the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul. The president was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey and Brigadier-general John M. Wilson. After a procession led by the Marine band in cassocks and a choir of 500 voices, the clergy of the diocese of Washington and the bishops of the Anglican communions of America, the opening prayers were read by Bishop Doane of Albany. The president was introduced by Bishop Satterlee. At the close of the president's address the Most Rev. Enos Nuttall, archbishop of the West Indies asked permission to say a word on behalf of the British people.

Speaking, as he said, for them, he told of the "reverence and respect" which all Englishmen feel for the president of the United States and for Theodore Roosevelt, "the man and the Christian." He declared that England welcomed the expansion of the United States into a world power and that if President Roosevelt should visit England he would receive the greatest welcome ever extended a foreign visitor.

President's Address.

The president spoke, in part, as follows:

"I wish to dwell upon certain thoughts suggested by three different quotations.

"In the first place, 'Thou shall serve the Lord with all thy heart, with all thy soul and with all thy mind,' the next, 'Be ye therefore wise as serpents and harmless as doves,' and finally, 'We being ready both in body and soul may therefore accomplish those things which thou commandest.'

"We have the right to claim from you not merely that you shall have heart in your work, but that you shall give the best that your minds have got to it also. In the eternal and unending warfare for righteous causes against evil, the friends of what is good need to remember that in addition to being decent they must be efficient; that good intentions, high purposes, cannot

REPUBLICANS MEET TONIGHT

ROOSEVELT REPUBLICAN CLUB WILL ARRANGE FOR JUDGES CAMPBELL AND LEWIS LATER IN THE WEEK.

The regular meeting of the Roosevelt Republican club will be held at the county court house this evening, but the scheduled speeches by Judges Campbell and Lewis will not be made until a meeting to be called later in the week.

It was hoped that arrangements could be made to have Judge Campbell tonight but he has been in Trinidad for some time and will not return to Denver until tomorrow or next day. As soon as he returns however, President Woodworth of the club will communicate with him and arrange for his presence at one of the club meetings.

The meeting tonight will be very much like those already held, and will be thrown open to a general discussion of the issues confronting the party.

MESSENGER BOYS STRIKE IN BOSTON

PICKETS TRIED TO PERSUADE A GIRL STRIKE-BREAKER TO STOP WORK—POLICE STOP ENSUING FIGHT.

Boston, Oct. 25.—Only one disorderly demonstration marked the third day of the strike of messenger boys employed by the American District Telegraph company. Throughout the day several strikers were on picket duty in the vicinity of the Western Union Telegraph main office on State street. The pickets tried to induce many of the girl strikebreakers to stop work, but generally without any attempt at intimidation.

Late in the day one of the girls was followed by several boys yelling at and threatening her. The girl paid no attention to the crowd until one of the boys struck her and then she struck back. This was the signal for an attack on her by the entire crowd, which had grown to large proportions. Several men rushed to the girl's aid and protected her until policemen, by free use of their clubs, scattered the strikers and their sympathizers. The girl delivered the message and returned to the office under police escort. At a meeting of the Building Trades council today a committee was appointed to arrange for an indignation meeting to protest against the employment of girls.

The Newsboys union donated $15 for the benefit of the strikers and has declared an assessment of 10 cents a week.

Resolutions were passed by the newsboys denouncing the telegraph company for what they termed "tyrannic action in discharging faithful employes without hearing and without cause."

SCULPTOR DEAD.

Budapest, Oct. 25.—Johann Fadruss, the sculptor, is dead.

LOVE

Lives only in the present. Nature throws a glamor around youth and maiden, so that although they saw misery and marriage walking hand in hand in every house in the world they would fondly believe that they could marry and defy misery.

Young women should be taught to prepare for marriage. They should understand how to preserve their womanly health through the functional changes of maternity. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the most effective medicine for the preservation of womanly health and the cure of womanly diseases. It regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It prepares the womanly organism for maternity and makes the birth hour practically painless.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic.

"My wife was afflicted with uterine trouble for several years," writes Mr. J. C. Day of Little Britain, Lancaster Co., Pa., "and in November, 1898, the doctor said she had a miscarriage. He treated her for about two months or so, but there was but little improvement. I wrote you after she had commenced to take 'Favorite Prescription' and you told us to get 'Golden Medical Discovery' also. She took six or seven bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and got out of bed and was able to attend to her household work."

ENDOWED ATHLETICS

University of Chicago May Inaugurate New System and Discontinue Paid Admissions.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—The faculty of the University of Chicago are endeavoring to inaugurate a system of athletics under which there will be no paid admissions to contests in which the university athletes compete. As the co-operation of all the western colleges will be necessary to carry out the radical departure steps have already been taken to arrange conferences with the universities of Wisconsin and Michigan. The plan will necessitate the establishment of an endowment fund for physical culture and athletics and the trustees of the Chicago institution have already taken preliminary steps looking to this end.

Some scheme for issuing invitations to the football and both games and track meets will be formulated.

DEATH OF NAVAL OFFICER.

Mansfield, O., Oct. 25.—Lieut.-Commander Martin Bevington from New York, chief engineer on the battleship Kentucky, of the Asiatic squadron, died today of Bright's disease, aged 48. During the Spanish-American war he was inspector in the bureau of navigation at Washington.

MILITARY GOVERNOR COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Constantinople, Oct. 25.—It is reported here that Loufti Pasha, military governor of the province of Asir, on the Red sea, and adjoining Yemen Arabia, committed suicide in despair because the government and Constantinople ignored his repeated demands for reinforcement. This refusal to send aid was followed by a general uprising in Asir in which the governor of the province was killed and a battalion of troops cut up. Reinforcements are now being sent to Asir.

JAPANESE STEAMERS NOT A GOOD RISK.

Liverpool, Oct. 25.—Believing that war between Russia and Japan cannot long be delayed, the Marine underwriters decline to accept war risks on Japanese steamers even at the tempting price of 25 guineas per cent.

BASEBALL PEACEMAKERS COMPLETED THEIR WORK AT ST. LOUIS AND ADJOURNED—MEMPHIS MAN EXPELLED.

St. Louis, Oct. 25.—The national board of arbitration of the National Association of Professional League clubs completed its work and adjourned at an early hour today. M. H. Sexton was elected chairman and J. H. Farrell of Auburn, N. Y., secretary of the board.

William Phyle, of the Memphis club, who failed to appear and substantiate the charges made by him that certain players had "thrown" games to influence the Southern league championship, was expelled.

A number of minor cases were decided. In the case of Hulseman who was drafted by the Chicago American league club from Shreveport, the player was awarded to Shreveport. President Williams of the Spokane, Wash., club, appeared before the board in an endeavor to secure Hulseman.

Messrs. Powers, Sexton and Farrell left tonight for Cincinnati to attend the meeting of the national commission which convenes there tomorrow.

CALIFORNIA TOWN IS ENDANGERED BY FIRE.

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—A telegram to the Merchants exchange from Seattle says that the brig Tanner went ashore last night six miles below Port Angeles. The sea was breaking over her and she will probably be a total loss. The crew got ashore. The Tanner was en route to Port Angeles from San Diego.

WOUNDED WOMAN IS DYING AT CRIPPLE.

Cripple Creek, Oct. 25.—Grace Chilhoun, who was shot in Myers avenue Friday night by Charles, alias "Slim" Campbell, is in a dying condition tonight at the county hospital. Doctors and nurses have given up all hope for her recovery and there is every possibility of Campbell being branded, not only as an ex-convict, but also a murderer.

Cripple Creek, Oct. 26.—Grace Chilhoun, who was shot by "Slim" Campbell, died this morning at 1:10 o'clock.

POLO IN ENGLISH AND AMERICAN ARMIES.

The agreement between the troopers of squadron A and the polo players of West Point, by which two matches are contested each year was the beginning of polo in the United States army, and this year, for the first time, the advantages of polo among the officers have been brought prominently before the war department. The sport deserves a helping hand from the war department, as polo in moderation is a royal game for army men, yet it will never be as popular here as in England because American officers cannot afford the expense of maintaining polo stables, unless the government furnishes some sort of aid. Yet in spite of this handicap, nearly a dozen teams have been organized at American army posts in the last two years, and there is a decided "boom" on.

All this sounds strange to English officers, among whom polo is of vast importance. When the column of Indian troops, Goorkas, Bengal Lancers, Rajputs and Sikhs marched to Peking three years ago, their English officers were as keen on sports as they were on warfare. There were not the pampered pets of the home garrisons, but first-class fighting men from the Indian permanent establishment, who had won their medals in hot border campaigns. Within ten days after they had helped to capture Peking, these officers had and were posting neatly printed bulletins, turned out by the hand-press of the Madras Sappers, signed by an "Honorable Secretary," announcing: "There will be a game of hockey and a steeplechase in the Temple of Heaven on Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock." The Temple of Heaven was the most sacred enclosure of the Chinese Empire, and this incongruity added to the enjoyment of the American officers, who had their first glimpse at close range of the British army and the sports that went along with its fighting columns.—(From the Illustrated Sporting News.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN, TEMPORARILY INSANE, MURDERS THREE OF HER CHILDREN—ONE BOY ESCAPED.

Monterey, Calif., Oct. 25.—While temporarily deranged, Mrs. Louis Iverson, wife of a Salinas machinist, murdered three of her four children yesterday at Pacific Grove at the dictation, she says, of "a supreme power." She first strangled her oldest daughter, Louisa, aged 12 years. She then attempted the life of her eldest son, aged 11, who had just come into the house, but the boy broke away from her and took a train for his home in Salinas. She then strangled her son, Harold, aged six, and then went out of the house and got an ax with which she struck him a blow on the head. Later in the evening she killed her seven-months-old baby, Maria, by strangling her.

The story of the murder of her children was related by Mrs. Iverson to Sheriff W. J. Nesbitt this morning. She added that during the night she had walked about the house, lying down for a short time on the floor. She said she realized now that she had done wrong, but believed she was doing right at the time she committed the deed. She persisted, however, in stating that the children were not dead. The boy who escaped went to his home in Salinas and reported to his father that the eldest girl was ill and had been lying on the bed, but said nothing of his mother's attack upon him. The father telephoned to a Pacific Grove physician, asking him to call at the house and see the child. The doctor did so and was met at the door by Mrs. Iverson, who said there was no one sick in the house and that some mistake had been made.

Early this morning Mr. Iverson himself drove to Pacific Grove. He knocked at the front door of the cottage where his wife and family had been living and was told to go around to the back door. He did so and entering the house, was about to kiss his wife when she said:

"Don't touch me. Don't put your hands on me. Go and look at your children."

With that he opened the door of an adjoining room where lay the bodies of the three children, the boy on one bed and the two girls on another. The house was in disorder and indications were plentiful that the two older children had struggled hard against their death.

Mrs. Iverson had been ill for several months and had shown signs of mental derangement, her mania being of a religious nature.

FIENDISH CRIME

Farm Hand in Indiana Murdered His Two Little Boys in Spirit of Revenge.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 25.—Jesse McClure, a farm hand, murdered his two sons, aged five and seven years, this afternoon, near Franklin, because his wife refused to see him. Later McClure drove to this city and surrendered. Tonight it was learned that a mob was forming to come to Marion and he was spirited from the jail here and started for Indianapolis.

Mrs. McClure had taken her children to her father's home. Today McClure found them playing in the front yard and induced them with candy to take a ride with him.

After surrendering, McClure admitted the murder to the turnkey and said he had killed his children because his wife had refused to see him. He said:

"I decided to be revenged and drove down the road to a little clump of trees. My children were asleep in the buggy. When I stopped the jolt awoke my little boy, Dee. He looked up at me and said 'Papa, what are you going to do?'

"I held my hand over his eyes and took my gun from my pocket and shot him in the forehead, killing him instantly. The shot awoke little Homer and I took him by the shoulder and fired a shot into his head. They both fell to the bottom of the buggy. I drove the horse to the side of the road and laid their bodies on the withered grass.

"The neighbors will lynch me when they find out what I have done. I do not care what you do with me. I am ready to die and expect to hang for this crime. All that I ask is to see my dear little ones buried."

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—Jesse McClure was brought here tonight and placed in jail. He made a second confession, repeating the statements made to the turnkey at the Marion jail.

AS TO WIDOWED MOTHER.

Miss Jane Addams Would Like to Know How to Get Rid of a Perplexing Problem.

"How shall we lay the widowed-mother ghost?" asked Miss Jane Addams in Chicago the other day, while discussing the enforcement of the child labor laws before a federation of women's clubs. She answered her own question by urging that women's clubs everywhere establish public school scholarships, in order to enable children who are really needed as wage earners to get the free education the state owes them. The problem is a difficult one. In all the child labor laws recently passed in the south there are exceptions to the general provisions, in favor of the widowed mother and the incapacitated father, and it is surprising in what large numbers these two familiar characters appear upon the stage in mill towns. In many cases the widowed mother works, too; in others, the incapacitated father's disability is very largely due to the bacillus of laziness, with perhaps a germ of malaria thrown in. The mill owners quite naturally appeared as the widowed mother's best friend in all public hearings on the bills. The advocates of the laws took the ground that indigent families might in most cases better be supported by the towns and counties than cause children to be deprived of their right to elementary knowledge. We can hardly feel that Miss Addams has hit upon a complete solution of the problem; but it goes without saying that her plan to send a letter urging it to every woman's club in the National federation will, if carried out, arouse the public to the importance of the subject.—(New York Post.

Word was received from Spencer yesterday that John Campbell had been killed. He was working in the place of Jacob Ross on the Haines group and was coming up the shaft to dinner when the rope broke and he fell to the bottom, sustaining internal injuries, and died about an hour afterward. He leaves a wife and four children. The remains will be brought to Gunnison tomorrow and interred in the Masons and Odd Fellows cemetery.—(Gunnison Tribune.

John Knaus of Loveland finished threshing Tuesday. On his 115 acres of wheat the average was 40 bushels to the acre.

One night last week the sugar factory turned out almost 2,000 sacks of its high-grade sugar—each sack containing one hundred pounds of sweet. To be precise there were 198,500 pounds finished—or a half pound for every man, woman and child in the city of Denver! And all this by the night shift—which this far holds the record.—(Loveland Reporter.

D. Windnagel of Berthoud, has finished threshing 20 acres of spring wheat which yielded 1,070 bushels, an average of 53½ bushels to the acre. He had 15 acres of fall wheat which averaged 56 bushels, and 10 acres which gave only 214 bushels. The ten-acre field was very poor, but the others were all right.

William Griep had the best average for spring wheat that had been hailed so far reported. His 50 acres of wheat had to be cut with a mower, and was hauled to the thresher on a bull rake, and it averaged 40 bushels to the acre. His winter wheat averaged, 25 acres, 50 bushels, and another field of 25 acres went only 35 bushels.—(Berthoud Bulletin.

WHY THE COW KICKED.

A Brand New Story of the Origin of the Great Chicago Fire—She Had a Kick Coming.

Joseph Kirkland in his "Story of Chicago" gives the results of his thorough investigations of the origin and events of the great Chicago fire, the greatest known in history. But from the time of the story there told of Mrs. O'Leary's immortal milking experience it has been disputed by sensation story writers. All of them, however, give the cow most of the credit.

A confession alleged to have been made Centennial week by Mrs. Callahan says that there was a party gathering Sunday evening at the home of Pat McLaughlin, just back of whose house was the stable wherein was stalled the celebrated cow. About 8 o'clock, when luncheon was served for the party, it was discovered that they had no milk for their coffee. Denny O'Connors, just arrived from Ireland, slipped out with the woman who tells the story, then a young girl, to the cowshed with a lamp, for the purpose of stealing some milk. Mrs. Callahan set the lamp on the floor and was laughing at the awkward Irishman as he got on the wrong side of the cow to do the milking, when either the cow kicked it over or Dennis stumbled and knocked it over, she does not know which, and the greatest conflagration in history began.

FORMER CITY CLERK OF CRIPPLE CREEK TAKES ISSUE WITH ACCOUNTANT SCHWANBECK—FURTHER INVESTIGATION.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Oct. 25.—Former City Clerk Dal Weyand has submitted a report or letter to the citizens of the district and to the city officials dealing on his alleged shortage of $3,530, having in part the following to say:

"Sometime in July of this year, Lewis B. Schwanbeck, claiming to be an expert and who has been examining the records and accounts of the city of Cripple Creek, made a report to the city council in which he charged me with being guilty of defalcation in my administration of the city clerk's office of this city.

"This report was made during my absence from the city. Later, and on the 20th day of September, he made what is called a full and complete report of his examination of the books of this city in which he charged that I was defaulter to the extent of $3,530. During his examination of the books he never conferred with me or asked me to explain a single item over which there might be a misunderstanding or dispute. In fact until his report was published he never asked me a single question in regard to matters which were made the subject of his examination.

"Since that report was published I have endeavored to check up matters therein set forth whenever able to get possession of the books, and have now succeeded in checking up all the matters with the exception of three. These three items yet to be considered involve the sum of $530, and as soon as I can possibly investigate these amounts I shall do so and set them straight. To the present I have been unable to get the data upon which these items are based. However, the investigation thus far has shown that out of the alleged defalcation of $3,530, there is no defalcation at all."

Mr. Dal Weyand stated to your representative that while there seemed to be a few mistakes made he would be able to clear up the matter in a satisfactory way if he can obtain the opportunity.

MYSTERIOUS CASE

New York Police and United States Officials Investigating Death of Chinaman on the Bowery.

New York, Oct. 25.—The police, aided by United States Inspector A. E. McLaughlin of Philadelphia, are investigating the death of Sam Jim, a Chinaman, who died yesterday in a Chinese store on the Bowery. Jim, according to the inspector, was indicted with 19 other Chinamen at Philadelphia for smuggling opium and in order to escape punishment furnished the secret service officials with information that resulted in the discovery of a vast smuggling plot. It is now supposed that Sam Jim was murdered in revenge by highbinders. As a result of Inspector McLaughlin's story the police tonight arrested Tuck Lee, Sam Kee and Quong Jon, all living in Pell street.

New York Actress Suffering from Bullet Wound Inflicted by a Stranger—Police Not Notified.

New York, Oct. 25.—Guarded so closely that not even the police knew of the case, Corona Ricardo, an actress, with a bullet wound an inch above her heart, lies critically ill at her home in this city. She was shot late Friday afternoon and the explanation made tonight that the bullet must have been fired by a mysterious stranger who had followed her home from the theater, repeatedly, or that she was hit by a stray shot from a street brawl. All she knows, it was declared, was that she had approached an open window and was peering out through the dusk and rain when from one or two men talking at a fence had come the flash of a pistol, followed by unconsciousness.

The attending physician says that a small bullet had entered a half inch above the heart, struck a rib and being deflected emerged about five and one-half inches from the point of entrance. There are no symptoms of poisoning or other complications though Miss Ricardo is suffering greatly from the shock.

THREE MEN DROWNED AT PORTLAND, MAINE.

Portland, Me., Oct. 25.—Three men from the United States transport Kilpatrick and a Portland man were drowned in the outer harbor last night. The victims were a sergeant of one of the companies on board the ship, the captain's cabin boy, a ship's carpenter and Fred Stanford of this city. The names of the Kilpatrick's men could not be learned. A man from the city came up to the transport which was anchored off Fort George about 9 o'clock last evening with a party of soldiers from shore and was asked and consented to take another party ashore. The boat sank. It was dark but boats were lowered and an attempt made to pick up the men who were struggling in the water. When all who could be found were on board it was learned that the four mentioned were missing.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN

REGIMENTS AT FORT RILEY HAD TROUBLE ABOUT PAY, BUT MATTERS WERE LATER ADJUSTED.

Fort Riley, Kas., Oct. 25.—For a short time today was a possibility that the regiments of the National guard which commence to break camp tomorrow, would not receive their pay before departure. The paymasters were here with the money but they demanded that the regular army officers detailed to muster the militia regiments should notify them as to the time the National guardsmen left home, the length of time on the road going and coming, and the duration of camp duty. The mustering officers refused in every instance to comply with the majority of these requests on the ground of lack of personal knowledge. For a short time there was a deadlock but Adjutant-General Mayes stepped into the office, certified to the facts in each case, supplied the certificates to the mustering officers who turned them in with their muster rolls, and the National guardsmen were assured of their pay before leaving for home.

The maneuvers for tomorrow will comprise the attack and defense of an intrenched position.

REPORT ON INSULAR AND COAST DEFENSE

General Gillespie, Chief of Engineers of the United States Army, Reviews Work of Construction of Fortifications.

Washington, Oct. 25.—The annual report of General George L. Gillespie, chief of engineers U. S. A. for the past year, made public today, refers to the work of construction of the fortifications that has been going on under the general scheme of the Endicott board. It adds:

"The degree of defense to be provided for coaling and other naval stations scattered all over the world for the larger naval bases which must promptly be established and for which appropriations are asked of congress by the navy department, for the ports of Manila, Pearl Harbor and Honolulu, and for the lake ports and the St. Lawrence river, should preferably be determined by a tribunal similar to the Endicott board as recommended in my last annual report. In the absence of legislation on the subject of insular defenses, a mixed board of engineers and artillery officers, organized by authority of the secretary of war has already been practically considering and reported upon plans for the emergency defense of several of the most important harbors in the insular possessions. Before these preliminary plans are actually entered upon it might be well to invite the co-operation of the navy by the assignment of a certain number of naval officers upon a new joint board of army and navy officers appointed to revise or enlarge the preliminary plans of defense heretofore prepared."

General Gillespie says that the projects for defense of 11 localities have been approved. He adds:

"Projects for the defense of San Juan Porto Rico, Pearl harbor and Honolulu harbor, Hawaii, San Luis, Apia, Guam, Manila bay and Subig bay have been approved by the secretary of war and actual construction should begin thereupon at an early date. It is believed that the time will come when it will not longer be possible to ignore the question of insular defenses. The navy department is properly insistent that all its important coaling stations should receive proper defensive protection to keep off attacks from possible hostile fleets.

The sea coast defenses of the United States are now somewhat more than 50 per cent completed. Twenty-five of the principal harbors of the United States have a sufficient number of heavy guns and mortars mounted to permit an effective defense against naval attack, and during the past three years considerable progress has been made in the installation of an adequate rapid-fire armament, now the matter of first importance."

At present there are provided for the defenses of the United States 105 12-inch guns, 133 10-inch guns, 96 8-inch guns, 567 rapid-fire guns and 376 12-inch mortars.

General Gillespie submits a total estimate of $10,366,100 for the fortifications of the fiscal year ending June 30 1905, as follows:

Construction of guns and mortar batteries and the installation of range and position finders, $4,575,000, sites for fortification and sea coast defenses, $2,000,000, searchlights for harbor defense, $600,000, protection, preservation and repairs of fortifications, $800,000; preparation of plans for fortifications, $5,000 supplies for sea coast defenses, $35,000 sea walls and embankments, $200,000, torpedoes for harbor defenses $225,000 defense of insular possessions $2,000,000 procurement of land for sites for defenses of the Hawaiian islands $526,000.

Among the estimates of improvements are the following:

Deep water harbor San Pedro bay, California $500,000 Wilmington harbor California, $50,000, San Luis Obispo, California, $65,000 San Pablo bay, California, $81,000, San Joaquin river, California, $35,000 Stockton channel, San Joaquin river California, $124,316, Sacramento and Feather rivers, California, $25,000 Coquille river, Oregon, $30,000, Coos bay Oregon, $60,000, Columbia river at The Mile rapids Oregon and Washington $300,000 canal at cascades of Columbia river Oregon and Washington, $80,000 Willamette and Yamhill rivers above Portland Oregon, $90,000, Columbia and Willamette rivers, below Portland, Oregon, $500,000 mouth of Columbia river, Oregon and Washington, $500,000 Gray's harbor and Chehalis river Washington $55,000, Puget sound and tributary waters, $30,000 New Whatcom harbor, Washington, $35,000 improvement Yellowstone park $250,000.

[illegible] NAVY

Rear Admiral Bowles Makes Annual Report Showing Progress in Naval Construction.

Washington Oct. 25.—Rear Admiral Bowles chief of the bureau of construction and repair in his annual report to the secretary of the navy reviews at length the progress made by this government in naval construction. The following additions have been made to the effective force of the navy during the year:

One battleship four monitors, 12 torpedo-boat destroyers one torpedo boat and seven submarine torpedo boats. The list should have been increased by two battleships and five cruisers the report states but owing to strikes and others causes their completion was delayed. The report states that the "rate of progress of vessels under construction for completion at the present time presents some very encouraging indications for completion of many of the most important contracts, but, considered as a whole, the progress made during the last fiscal year has been very unsatisfactory."

Speaking of the battleship Connecticut, which is a sister ship of the Louisiana, being built by a private company the report says that although slightly behind the Louisiana the progress made has been well up to the best previous average of contract-built ships and adds:

Better Results in Future

Better prospects for the delivery of structural steel material and the completeness and accuracy of the plans upon which these ships and those subsequently authorized are being built furnish good grounds for believing that the future progress upon these latter vessels will exceed any results heretofore attained and that the completion of the hull and machinery will not delay these vessels beyond the contract period.

"During the past year delay in the delivery of armor has caused but few delays in the delivery of vessels and much armor is now on hand in ship yards in advance of the needs of the builders.

Insufficient capacity for the production of nickel steel protective deck plates has been the cause of inadequate deliveries to the ship builders and has embarrassed and delayed their work to a considerable extent in the past year and is still operative."

In connection with the improvements recommended for Mare Island navy yard Admiral Bowles says:

"It is desired in order that the yard may be prepared for the building of the largest vessels that preparations be made to that end."

More Drydocks Needed

For the Puget Sound yard it is pointed out that another drydock is required also a marine railway and a number of buildings.

Concerning the navy yard at Norfolk Admiral Bowles says:

"Being located on Hampton Roads, where large fleets must of necessity rendezvous this yard should unquestionably be equipped as one of the foremost yards of the country. Recently the first-class battleship Illinois came to and left the yard without difficulty. This would appear to settle the question of sufficient depth of channel."

It is stated that the bureau's work continues to be embarrassed by lack of sufficient drydocks of capacity such as are suited to dimensions of battleships and first-class cruisers.

Appended to the report is a summary which shows there are 252 vessels in the navy fit for service 45 building and 23 unfit for sea service.

The following are under construction or authorized:

First-class battleships, 14, armored cruisers, 8, protected cruisers 9, gunboats for great lakes (not begun), 1; composite gunboats, 2 steel torpedo boats 6; training ships 2, training brig, 1, tugs, 2.

LOCKED UP IN OFFICE FOR SEVERAL HOURS

John Reed an employe of the Whitaker-Roberts printing company was responsible for a prolonged call, which was paid by a man who had dropped in on business. About ten o'clock yesterday morning, Mr Reed noticed a man passing through the mechanical department of the shop, but paid no further attention to him. Shortly after, Mr Reed left, locking the hall door, the only means of egress, after him. It seems that the visitor sat down patiently and began to wait for some one to let him out. Time passed and no one appeared. He finally managed to raise a window and attract the attention of a passerby who notified Mr Roberts, and the man was released.

AN ALLEGED FUGITIVE CAPTURED AT LONGMONT

Denver, Oct. 25.—A special to the Republican from Longmont says W. P. Damon, said to be one of the prisoners who escaped from the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., several months ago, was captured in Longmont by detectives from Denver. Damon is said to have been serving a sentence for train robbery and murder.

REMAINS OF MRS. RINE TAKEN TO CARBONDALE

The remains of Hattie Rine, wife of George Rine, who died at the "Fink Home" Saturday afternoon have been taken to Carbondale Colorado, for burial, and will be laid in the family vault beside her son Mr Rine, and daughter Janette, accompanied the remains. Mrs Rine had been ill for some time and her death was not unexpected. She was beloved by all, and was an active worker in the W R C which organization did all that lay in its power to ally her sufferings. Mr. and Miss Rine have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends.

continuity and inspiration of their work—a work neither exploited nor even mentioned in the daily papers, because of its common, everyday character.

And yet it must be admitted, with regret, that there are those, who by nature and training are really unfitted for the social activities of the church, to which we have reference. How important, then, that great care be exercised in the selection of these workers; that they get together periodically, compare notes and make a study of the general problem which they are given to solve. A few from each church, devoted, capable workers—trained, if you will—adapted to the work in hand, will accomplish more than ten times as many 'untrained and unassorted volunteers' who give little or no thought as to what should be done or how best to do it, but simply act under the impulse of the moment and usually along the line of least resistance.

"It is gratifying to learn that the young people's societies are also realizing that a large field for service lies before them, which they have entered with youthful eagerness to count for something in the sphere of philanthropy. It occurs to me that in no way can constancy in their devotion to the interest of the church be more firmly established in our young people than by making them feel that their influence and service are recognized as a practical factor in the social uplift and in the ministry to the sick."

As to "Grafters."

At the outset of his report on the work done the past year, Dr. Carrington said. "We have a number of 'grafters' who have tried to impose on us, usually without success, but we have not entirely escaped."

The speaker related a number of instances, the one which he designated "the worst case," being that of a woman who had been given substantial help toward self-support in a small industry. "Some time after she quietly sold all she had been supplied with through our agency," said Dr Carrington, "deserted her husband and departed without leaving her address."

Referring to the special features of the work, Dr Carrington first spoke of the hospital department. He said:

"By authority of the board, we have connected the front rooms of the city home into a department for the care of the sick, and it promises to be a nucleus for a larger work in this direction. And here let me say that in ministering to the sick and dying certain ladies of the First Baptist society and the Young People's society of the same church have rendered a service our appreciation of which cannot be adequately expressed in words. Of their own accord they have also repapered one of the rooms and otherwise added to the comforts of the sick, and the end is not yet. Surely of them it may be said 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.'

Tent Colony.

"Late in the season we made a new departure in establishing a tent colony near the eastern boundary of the city in the neighborhood of Knob hill. There is no greater menace to the city as a health resort than the crowded condition of the low-priced lodging houses, and in order to meet the necessity of the consumptive poor who continue to come to us with the fond hope of regaining health, it was decided to make an experiment with these tents. The use of the temporary location was kindly given us by General Palmer, where we erected six tents, all of which were occupied part of the time until the cold weather set in. The several physicians whom we consulted in the matter think it is a step in the right direction, provided enough money can be secured to make the tents as substantial as possible and provide the necessary arrangements for the care of the patients. So far the experiment is considered comparatively satisfactory but our faith was not strong enough to warrant us in incurring liabilities to cover which the money was not in sight. The charge we made was $4 a week, and we think that amount would cover the actual cost if we were permanently located and had a resident matron to look after the details.

Wood Yard.

The volume of business fell off last year as compared with the previous year. We have, however, succeeded in making almost as good a showing on the smaller sales, owing to a closer attention to details on the part of the new yardman. The high cost of feed has run up the expense account so as to leave a smaller margin on the year's business. It is not generally known that we have been obliged to run that wood yard without one dollar of working capital, a fact which hampers us in our purchases. We ought to have $1,000 to work on and we hope some of our friends will appreciate the difficulty of running a business without capital and come to our relief."

Some Statistics.

Mr Carrington concluded by giving some general statistics showing that the organization had received all told during the year $5,587.02, of which $4,104.11 was from subscriptions and the rest from the wood yard. He stated that 11,010 meals and 3,400 beds had been furnished at the City home and that 302 half-rate tickets had been given to help needy people on to places where they had relatives or friends.

In conclusion Mr Carrington stated that while there were many who had given him valuable assistance in carrying on the work during the year, he felt that especially should he give expression of his deep appreciation of the assistance of General William J. Palmer, Mrs. E. C Goddard and Mr. E W. Giddings without whose assistance, in counsel, financial aid and encouragement, he would not have been able to have carried on the work successfully.

AMERICAN VISITORS RECEIVED BY POPE.

Rome, Oct. 25.—The pope appeared before 2,000 Venetian residents in Rome in the court of San Damaso today and was enthusiastically received. He spoke to the Venetians most affably, saying he enjoyed hearing spoken around him the Venetian dialect for it made him feel younger and reminded him of his earlier life. The ovation given to the pontiff was notable.

After it the pope admitted the leading personages of the Venetian colony to the hall of inscriptions.

Mr and Mrs. W E Curtis of Washington, D. C., have been received by the pope with marks of especial consideration.

LONDON STOCKS.

London, Oct. 25.—Dullness and depression characterized all departments of the stock exchange during the past week and until the rumors of war in the far east are dispelled there is little likelihood of any sustained improvement. Not only the stocks immediately affected by the war rumors but some home railways also suffered heavily. The American market was sustained by bear purchases but on the whole it showed a sagging tendency.

be effective and a substitute for power to make those purposes, those intentions felt in action. We must have the purpose and the intention.

"If our powers are not guided aright it is better that we should not have them at all; but in addition to being guided aright we must have the power also; you must cultivate the power also. In the second quotation, remember that we are told not merely to be harmless as doves, but also to be wise as serpents. We are not to be excused if we do not show both qualities. It is not very much praise to give a man to say he is harmless. We have a right to ask that in addition to the fact that he does no harm to anyone, he shall possess the wisdom and the strength to do good to his neighbor.

"Finally we ask that we may be made ready both in body and in soul that we may cheerfully accomplish three things that we are commanded to do, both in body and in soul; that we shall fit ourselves physically and mentally, fit ouselves by the way in which we work with the weapons necessary for dealing with this life no less than with the higher, spirtual weapons; fit ouselrves thus to do the work commanded, and moreover, do it cheerfully.

Work Is a Privilege.

"Small is our use for the man who individually helps any of us and shows that he does it grudgingly. I would rather not be helped than be helped in that way. We have a right to ask a cheerful heart, a right to ask a bouyant and cheerful spirit among those to whom it granted the privilege of doing the Lord's work in this world. The chance to do work, the duty to do work is not a penalty, it is a privilege."

Continuing President Roosevlt said:

"In the seventh hymn which we sung, in the last line you all joined in singing 'God Save the State.' Do you intend merely to sing that, or to try to do it? If you intend merely to sing it, your part in doing it will be but small. The state will be saved, if the Lord puts it into the heart of the average man so to shape his life that the state shall be worth saving, and only on those terms.

Need of Civic Righteousness.

"We need civic righteousness. The best constitution that the wit of man has ever devised; the best institutions that the ablest statesmen in the world have ever reduced to practice by law or by custom, shall be of no avail if they are not vivified by the spirit which makes a state great by making it honest, just and brave in the first place. I do not ask you as practical believers in applied christianity to take part one way or the other in matters that are merely political. There are plenty of questions about which men can and do differ very greatly and very intensely about which the triumph of either side may be compatible with the welfare of the state. But there are certain great principles such as those which Cromwell would have called fundamentals concerning which no man has a right to have but one opinion. Such a question is honesty.

"If you have not honesty in the average private citizen, or public servant, then all else goes for nothing. The better a man is the more dexterous, the shrewder, the bolder, the more dangerous he is if he has not the root of right living and right thinking in him—and that is private life, and even more in public life.

Aggressive Honesty.

"Exactly as in time of war, although you needed in each fighting man far more than courage, yet all else counts for nothing if there is not that courage upon which to base it. So in our civil life, although we need that the average man in private life, that the average public servant, shall have far more than honesty, yet all other qualities go for nothing or for worse than nothing unless honesty underlies them not only the honesty that keeps its skirts technically clear, but the honesty that is such according to spirit as well as the letter of the law, the honesty that is aggressive, the honesty that not merely deplores, but that wars against it and tramples it underfoot. I ask for that type of honesty. I ask for militant honesty, for the honesty of the kind that makes those who have it discontened with themselves as long as they have failed to do everything that in them lies to stamp out dishonesty weherever it can be found, in high places or in low. And let us not flatter ourselves, that it is possible ultimately for the people to cast upon any but themselves the responsibility for the shape the government and the social and political life of the community assume. I ask then that our people feel quickened within them the burning indignation against wrong in every shape which shall take effect in condemnation, especially condemnation of that wrong, whether found in private life or in public life at the moment."

silver, copper and zinc, in addition to coal in large quantities. In the northern part of the colony is an arid belt which will require irrigation to bring it into cultivation and in that respect and in respect to the mineral resources and railway construction, the British South African company is confronted with much the same problems that confronted the early settlers of Colorado and other western states.

Mr. Jones and the other members of the party are interested in learning the manner in which the early settlers of the western states met the problems before them, in order that they may benefit by their experience.

America's Object Lesson.

"America at one time learned from England," said Mr. Jones, "but all those who would learn the lesson of practical development are now turning to America, where the most remarkable development known has taken place. I am the representative of the British South African company, a chartered corporation with a capital of $20,000,000, and am here for the purpose of securing as much information as I can regarding the development of the western states, in order that the company may reap the benefit of the experience of those who have had to meet the same questions that confront us.

"We are learning the manner of handling irrigation here, the system of education, and all other things that will be beneficial to us. We will adopt as much of the system in vogue here as we deem best, and we will crib from all of them.

"We have found that we have been building our railroads on much the same plan followed here. That is, the roads are built out into undeveloped country, and form the basis of future development that would not be possible without them.

To Adopt School System.

"The free public school system appeals to us as being the best system of education, and it can be said with certainty that in great measure the American school system will be introduced in Rhodesia.

"The company has all the responsibilities of the British government on its shoulders, and we are anxious to do the best possible thing for the advancement of the country. Our company is supreme in the colony, and will so remain until the inhabitants are sufficiently advanced to take over the government in their own behalf.

"We have been in the United States about two weeks and will be here about two weeks longer before we return to London. In that time we expect to complete our stock of data and will make up our report to the board of directors of the company, which in turn will adopt certain of our recommendations and reject others.

"The future of Rhodesia will have been advanced by our visit to America and to Colorado."

The party will start for Pueblo this morning at 11 o'clock, and will go from there through several of the southwestern states, and then on to St. Louis and to Pittsburg and New York, where they will embark for England.

Mr Hammond said that his visit to Cripple Creek was to inspect the properties of the Guggenheim company.

"My visit has nothing to do with the strike at the mines, and, while we are vitally interested in the outcome of the trouble, we will take no action beyond that which is already being taken by the Mine Owners association," said Mr Hammond.

"In order, however, to keep the mines belonging to the company in good working condition it is necessary to make a complete technical examination at regular intervals, and it is the making of such an examination that brings me here at this time.

The Guggenheim Properties.

I find the physical condition of the mines is very good, and shall leave in a few days for the western part of the state where an examination will be made of the properties there."

Referring to the English capitalists, who are accompanying him on a trip over the state, Mr Hammond said:

"The party is here primarily for the purpose of making a study of American conditions for their help in the development of the British colony of Rhodesia in South Africa, over which the company has governmental control. I feel certain, however, that their visit here will result in the investment of considerable English capital in Colorado mining property."

the worshiper, following the bishop and his attendants filed into the office and the High mass began.

The Litany of Saints was sung by Bishop Matz and the choir, and, after worshiping for several minutes, Rev. Father Casey, pastor of the new church, addressed the congregation. He thanked the people of Manitou and Colorado Springs for their liberality in providing funds for the erection of the new edifice, and mentioned in particular General William J. Palmer, who, he said, had been the most liberal benefactor.

The donors of the beautiful windows and others who had contributed in a special way to the furnishing of the church were thanked by Father Casey and afterwards by Bishop Matz.

Christianity and Progress.

Bishop Matz' sermon was on the subject of "Christianity and Progress." He expatiated at considerable length upon the early ages and traced the progress of religion up to the present time. The speaker laid especial stress upon religious training in the public schools and made a plea for its institution. He spoke of the anarchistic movement with especial reference to Europe, and deprecated all political faiths which tended to destroy law and government and impede the progress of the country. His sermon was especially impressive, dealing, as it did, with subjects outside of the strict realm of religion as well as religious subjects, and his words were listened to with marked attention.

At the conclusion the regular service of the church was continued, and it was noon when the congregation filed out.

Notable Visitors.

A noticeable feature in connection with the services was the number of visitors from outside points that participated as clergymen or worshipers with the congregation. Attending Bishop Matz were his chaplains, Rev. J. J. Myers of St. Joseph, Mo., and Rev. Father Campbell of Canada; Rt. Rev. Mgr. Henry Robinson, V. G., of Denver, celebrant, Rev. Father Raber, Colorado Springs, deacon; Rev. Father Clarke, Glockner sanitarium, sub-deacon; Rev Father O'Farrell, Denver, master of ceremonies. Archbishop Bourgade of Santa Fe, N. M., occupied a seat in the sanctuary with Bishop Matz during the service. Rev. D. P. Pantanella and Rev. Joseph Carrington of Denver and Father Vincent of the Benedictine college at Pueblo were among the other clergymen present.

Judge Mullins of Denver, H. C. Videl, ex-county attorney of Arapahoe county, W. P. Horan, coroner of Denver, A. Gargan, superintendent of the Western Union at Denver, Mrs. Wright, assessor of Teller county, and a number of other visitors worshiped with the Manitou congregation and the Catholics of Colorado Springs and Colorado City at the services.

Banquet at "Castle."

After the service a banquet was served Bishop Matz and the visiting clergymen at the Montcalme.

The afternoon was spent in receiving clergymen at Montcalme.

In the evening services were held as usual, Rev. Father O'Ryan of Denver preached the sermon, his subject being "The Church." Rev. Joseph Carrington of St. Patrick's church of Denver assisted at the vesper service. The soloist of the evening was Mrs. Garrison of Colorado Springs.

STOCKHOLDERS OPPOSED TO RESUMING OPERATIONS

New York, Oct. 25.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the New York Building, Loan and Banking company, a resolution of the board of directors to levy an assessment upon the stock to wipe out an indebtedness of $350,000 take the company out of the hands of the receiver and place it again upon a working basis, was adopted, although the proposition was noisily and bitterly opposed by many of the stockholders present. REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT,
JOHN CAMPBELL.
FOR JUDGE FOURTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT,
ROBERT E. LEWIS.

THE NEED FOR A FULL PARTY VOTE.

ALTHOUGH the approaching state election occurs in what is termed an "off year," it is one that will exert a certain potency upon the issues of next year when a president and a congressional delegation are to be elected.

A falling off in the Republican vote this year, or the election of Judge Campbell by a majority short of that by which Governor Peabody was elected, will afford an infinite amount of encouragement to the Democracy. It will be a stimulus for greater activity on their part next year.

The leaders of the Democratic party in Colorado appreciate the fact that the Bryan scepter has departed from Israel. While they may win victories on smaller margins, yet never again can they hope to record a majority for their electoral ticket like that which marked their campaign of three years ago In that period of political and economic frenzy Bryan succeeded in securing a majority of 29,661 over McKinley Things are different now. The frenzy is past The dream-crazed enthusiasts who saw in free silver a panacea for the financial ills of the world are returning to their normal condition. The Republican party, as a result, is stronger today than it has been at any time since The Stuffed Prophet of the Platte reared aloft his cross of gold.

With no factional troubles to supervene, Republicanism today stands triumphant in Colorado. But it has to manifest its strength. It needs constant encouragement. There must be a demonstration by its members of their reawakened purpose. This can only be done by a full poll of the party strength this year.

Anything less means comfort, consolation and, possibly, future victory for the Democracy.

ENCOURAGE COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

THE citizens of Colorado Springs who failed to attend the football game at Washburn field on Saturday afternoon lost the opportunity of seeing one of the most interesting games of recent years

As it was, the crowd present was large, intensely interested and enthusiastic. But it was not as large as it should have been Athletics have come to be recognized as a distinctive and growing element in college life and as such are worthy of most liberal patronage and support

The day is past in our American life when these institutions graduate from their portals men of large brain and weak body; of highly developed mentality and poorly nourished physique The athletic side of college education is quite as important as the mental training, and a football match should attract as large an audience as a Greek play or a prize declamation contest.

Encouragement stimulates ambition, and with proper encouragement Colorado college athletes may ultimately win a high place in the next few years among western colleges and universities.

Besides, it advertises the college.

AN ESSENTIAL DUTY OF CONGRESS.

AMONG the important matters which will come before the coming congress at its regular session, bills for the protection of the president should receive prompt and careful attention, so that it may result in the passage of some practical, effective measure

There have been altogether too many so-called "cranks" on the trail of President Roosevelt during the past few months. No less than six have been arrested at the White house since the president's return from Oyster Bay. It is more than likely that other arrests may have occurred and not been reported, for the secret service officials have concluded from experience that the publications of reports of these attempts instigate others, and they therefore have decided on the policy of suppressing the details as far as possible.

The matter was so fully discussed and public sentiment was so thoroughly aroused, in the months succeeding the assassination of the late President McKinley that it seems extraordinary that so long a time should elapse without some effective action.

The democratic spirit which dislikes everything savoring of monarchical institutions is prejudiced against anything in the nature of a body-guard or any provision which tends to make the president inaccessible. But it should be remembered that actual conditions now are very different from those which prevailed in the early days. Anarchistic publications then had no circulation. "Yellow" journals with vile and slanderous cartoons perverting weak minds to viciousness had not yet appeared as evidence of the existence of a personal devil. Europe had not yet discovered America as a convenient dumping ground for the scum of her population.

Under present conditions, promotion to the presidency brings with it a personal danger greater than that of war. The chief executive immediately becomes a shining mark for "cranks," anarchists and maniacs. Without undue restriction of his personal liberty, he is entitled to all the protection which the most stringent laws can give. No sentimental foolishness as to "democratic simplicity" should be allowed to prevent the early passage and strict enforcement of such measures.

Hon. John H Reagan, former member of the Confederate cabinet and ex-United States senator, declares that the union of the states will be dissolved. Mr. Reagan's age and infirmities prevent him from traveling around and seeing something of the country, else he would change his opinion. The Union is less likely to be dissolved now than it was when Mr. Reagan last tried his fist at it forty years ago.

The Salt Lake Daily Tribune wants to know a few things, among others, who is backing Mr. Moffat in building his new railroad from Denver to Salt Lake City? It hints that the Burlington is behind Moffat at this end of the line and behind the Western Pacific beyond Salt Lake

There is a proposition to abolish dueling in France. This is really sad, seeing that no one ever gets damaged in such encounters After all, they might substitute ladies' hat pins for rapiers and let the dear fellows jab each other with them

Perhaps a little less "class spirit" and a little more enthusiasm in support of school athletics would have kept the Brown and White of the Colorado Springs High school from being dragged so ignominiously in the dust by East Denver

What has become of the much-heralded daily Democratic newspaper that was to cut loose in this neighborhood about the first of October? Possibly the promoters failed to find an "angel"

The difference between the original Elijah and Elijah II Dowie is that the original only cursed his enemies once in a while while John Alexander curses them all of the time

It is all right for "Cholly" Schwab to tell how the job was done, but it will not put the money back in the pockets of the stockholders of the shipbuilding trust

The Democrats must be making a still hunt in this campaign And it is so still that no one has heard of it

THE MERCHANT AND THE NEWSPAPER.

The merchant who thinks he can 'get along' without the local newspaper is right He can also get along without sugar in his coffee paint on his house, or clothes on his back That is he can exist But if he will devote a little careful study to the subject of getting along with the local newspaper he will find it the greatest assistant he ever employed at any price The subject, however, like any other should be studied Don't imagine that any kind of rubbish about your business, that you choose to put in your paper will of necessity repay the cost The advice to the beginner at chess—"Never make a move without a well-defined object in view" applies to nothing more completely than to advertising The statements you make through the paper are only half of the proposition Before making them be sure you are ready to execute what you promise, and if it is at all reasonable, you'll find that the newspaper does its part all right —(The Ad Writer St. Louis

POPE'S ENCYCLICAL

Is a Message Deeply Religious in Tone.

[illegible]

THE NEW POPE OUTLINES THE POLICY WHICH HE WILL FOLLOW—PREDICTS THE TRIUMPH OF GOD.

New York, Oct. 25.—The first encyclical of Pope Pius X has just reached this country It is in Latin and will be translated into all the various languages It is a very interesting document

After making reference to the utmost reluctance with which he accepted the supreme pontificate describing his feelings in the words used by the great St Anselm upon his election to the archbishopric of Canterbury, not only because he felt himself unworthy of the supreme pontificate, but because he was called to succeed the "glorious Leo,' the new pontiff says the "disastrous state of human society today terrifies him with his awful responsibilities

For, he asks, 'who can fail to see that society is now more than in any past age, suffering from a terrible and deep rooted malady which, developing every day and eating into its inmost being is dragging it to destruction? You understand, venerable brothers, what this disease is—apostasy from God, than which in truth nothing is more allied with ruin, according to the word of the prophet, 'For behold they that go far from thee shall perish' (I Ps lxxii 17'

He Outlines His Policy.

The pope then states what his policy will be in these words

'Since however, it has been pleasing to the divine will to raise our lowliness to such sublimity of power, we take courage in him who strengthens us, and, setting ourselves to work, relying on the power of God, we proclaim that we have no other program in the supreme pontificate but that of restoring all things in Christ (III Ephes. 1, 10) so that Christ may be all and in all (IV Coloss iii, 2) Some will certainly be found who, measuring divine things by human standards, will seek to discover the secret aims of ours, distorting them to an earthly scope and to partisan designs. To eliminate all vain delusion for such we say to them with emphasis that we do not wish to be, and with the divine assistance never shall be, aught before human society but the minister of God, of whose authority we are the depository The interests of God shall be our interests, and for these we are resolved to spend all our strength and our very life Hence should anyone ask us for a symbol as the expression of our will, we will give this and no other 'To renew all things in Christ'"

Predicts Triumph of God.

The pope then reviews the conditions obtaining throughout the world, saying that "every effort and every artifice is used to destroy utterly the memory and the knowledge of God." Then rising to the highest optimism, his holiness predicts "the triumph of God, quoting extensively from the scriptures He declares there "can be no peace without justice," and it would seem that he has in mind the great struggle between capital and labor as he writes

"For who can help being appalled and afflicted when he beholds in the midst of a progress in civilization justly extolled the greater part of mankind fighting among themselves so savagely as to make it seem as though strife were universal? The desire for peace is certainly harbored in every breast and there is no one who does not ardently invoke it. But to want peace without God is an absurdity, seeing that when God is absent thence, too, justice flies, and when justice is taken away it is vain to cherish the hope of peace Peace is the work of justice (I Is, xxxii, 17). There are many, we are well aware, who in their yearning for peace—that is, for the tranquility of order—band themselves into societies and parties, which they style parties of order Hope and labor lost' For there is but one party of order capable of restoring peace in the midst of all this turmoil, and that is the party of God. It is this party, therefore that we must advance, and to it attract as many as possible if we are really urged by the love of peace

The pope then speaks of the means to be employed in securing this end, saying that the first care of bishops should be 'to form Christ in those who are destined from the duty of their vocation to form him in others' He refers at length to the education of priests and the interest which each bishop should have in his seminary for their training. In passing he adverts to the higher criticism, saying 'Rest assured, venerable brothers, that we will use the greatest diligence to prevent the members of the clergy from being drawn into the snares of a certain new and fallacious science, which savoreth not of Christ, but with marked and cunning arguments strives to open the door to the errors of the rationalism" The pope then declares that priests must be apostles first and scholars afterward The pontiff advises charity in all things

The co-operation of the laity is asked for. The pope, however, insists that this co-operation be in acts rather than in words He says

'Such luminous examples given by the great army of soldiers of Christ will be of much greater force in moving and drawing men than words and sublime dissertations, and it will easily come about that when human respect has been subdued and prejudices and doubting laid aside large numbers will be won to Christ, becoming in their turn promoters of his knowledge and love, which are the road to true and solid happiness."

DEVERY DROPS INTO FRENCH.

The Friend of the "Downtrod" Prepares for a New Linguistic Stunt in His Campaign.

William Stephen Devery, the Little Friend of All the People, has announced his desire for the appreciation of his fellow citizens of French birth. A reporter found him the other day sitting on an overturned horse bucket in the door of the stable opposite the pump. He was looking over two papers. One of them was a circular in French, the other was a translation written in lead pencil. He was occupied with the translation. He seemed greatly pleased with it.

"How," said he, "look at that! That ought to make 10,000 votes for me among the French in this burg. How 'bout it? This is a translation I had made by a French kid who cleans up in a restaurant over here on Sixth avenue. Git on! Git on!"

While the reporter read this document Mr. Devery was deep in a small and much thumbed volume which he kept pretty well out of sight, but which seemed to be some sort of a phrase book or dictionary.

"Will that git 'em?" he asked, beaming with confidence. "Watch me! Regardez vous! Wait until I get on the stump and get 'em goin' by tellin' them ignorant and downtrod dagoes about Little Eva—I mean La Petite Eva. Wait till you here 'em get up and yell 'Conspues Jean Sheehan,' and wait until I rise up in my might before 'em and put it to 'em right an' say, 'J'accuse Murphie!' Ain't it, hey? Hein! Will I have something to say to 'em touchin' on an' appertainin' to—I mean touchant a et appartenant a—the way they are kept waitin' at tables for people who ought to be out in the streets pull'n' their own street cars up and down the tracks? Will Willie? Regardez vous, Willie! They are all grafters,' I'll tell 'em, 'Ils sont tous accapareurs!' Little Mac will have to back out more than four languages with Papa's Sword before he comes around le carrefour de la Pompe!

"Sapristi! Likewise Sacre bleu! Now run away and write that while me and me secretary, Mr. Schneider, get to work on me inaugural address for January 1."—(New York Sun.

Over 200 old people attended the special service held at the First Methodist church yesterday morning. Members of the Epworth league who were in charge furnished carriages for those of the old people who had none of their own. Rev C B Wilcox, the pastor preached a special sermon. In the afternoon a Sunday school rally was held which brought out every member of the school, about 600 pupils being present. D. W. Robbins who was superintendent of the Sunday school 24 years ago, made a short address.

This Sunday school is one of the largest in the city, the average attendance being about 750. Of these 560 pupils are in the main school and 190 in the primary department. There are 50 officers and teachers. The whole number of persons belonging to the school is 1,080. The superintendent is J. P. Barber.

The school has fine commodious class rooms, 27 in all, with a large room in the basement for the primary department.

The leaguers had the pulpit and organ loft decorated with fruits, autumn leaves, pumpkins, cornshocks and sage brush, giving the service the effect of a harvest home festival.

SENIORS WILL RETURN TO STUDIES THIS MORNING, AFTER THEY HAVE HELD CONFERENCE WITH SUPERINTENDENT

The High school seniors have definitely decided to return to their studies. As stated yesterday this decision was reached Saturday.

No formal action was taken but the situation was discussed in detail at a meeting held that evening. The six boys implicated in the flag episode stated that they thought the time to be ripe to return to school. This position was urged by many of the girls whose parents insisted that they should return, whether the class as a body, did or not.

It was stated by the members of an arbitration committee that the school board would meet the four boys who have been suspended together with the two whose names are not yet known this morning before school. It is thought by a majority of the class that their punishment will not be heavy, but, of course, the outcome is problematical.

The members of the class have been told that they will have to see Superintendent Deitrich and Principal Myers individually before they can be reinstated.

[illegible] MARKET PLACE

WILL BEGIN TODAY AND PUSHED TO COMPLETION AS RAPIDLY AS POSSIBLE—THE PLAN ADOPTED

The grade for the new market house on Cascade avenue will be determined by City Engineer J. W. Case today and the work will begin tomorrow.

The plans for the structure have been completed and as soon as the leveling and excavation has been finished the carpenters will be put to work setting up the structure.

An entrance way has been secured through 123 South Cascade avenue, making the market place entirely accessible. The storeroom through which entrance has been secured will be divided into stalls the same as the proposed building in the rear. They will be rented in the same manner except that a higher rental will be secured. The market building proper will be 152 feet long and 80 feet wide. It will be made of iron posts covered with corrugated iron and it is estimated that an income of $200 a month will be secured from the rental of the stalls while the city in turn will pay $22.50 a month for the use of the premises.

Marketmaster G. M. Johnson will have an office at the market place and all food will be inspected by him there.

POLICE CAPTURE [illegible]

THOMAS POWERS AND J. T. WILSON CAUGHT AT CLAYTON, N. M., AND WILL BE RETURNED FOR TRIAL

Word was received in this city Saturday of the capture of Thos Powers and J. T. Wilson at Clayton, N. M., who are wanted in this city on a charge of burglary. It will be remembered that these are the two men who left this city about a week ago with a horse and buggy belonging to the Slinker livery, the buggy being filled with samples of goods from the Polin store. Powers and Wilson were engaged by the Polin firm to solicit orders for goods to be bought on the deferred payment plan.

Apparently the longing for a change of scene possessed the men and they began to travel southward, and failed to leave an address. The police were notified of the robbery the day after it occurred and by the quick work of the department the thieves were caught at Clayton, New Mexico, Friday. It is thought by the officers that they were headed for Old Mexico.

Detective Burno left Saturday for Clayton and will bring the men back for trial.

AND THE PEOPLE, TOO, ENTER INTO HENRY MILLER'S GOOD OPINION OF THE COLORADO SPRINGS REGION

"Colorado Springs is a most delightful spot," said Henry Miller to a friend between the acts of a rehearsal Saturday.

"And the people themselves well, I think nice people are the same everywhere. Colorado Springs is made up of eastern people is it not? Or if they are not from the east they go there so much that it's all the same thing.

"Oh, yes, I have been here a great many times and I never get enough of it, the city and the superb mountains behind it."

It was Miss Anglin's first visit to Colorado Springs, and after a long drive through the mountains she was very enthusiastic about everything.

"You have a beautiful hotel here," said Mr. Miller, "one of the finest in the country.

"Everyone is delightful and everything is interesting and the scenery is beautiful, so that I should say that Colorado Springs is altogether charming."

Mr. Miller and Miss Anglin arrived in town Thursday and will leave this morning for Denver.

Miss Anglin will go to London next season to be gone several years.

Class of 25 Adults and Children Receive Sacrament From Bishop Matz at St. Mary's.

Hundreds of persons who were anxious of witnessing the confirmation services last evening were turned from its doors owing to the lack of room.

The services began at 7:30 with a sermon by Bishop Matz of Denver. Special music had been arranged for the occasion and the large choir was under the direction of Mr. Seymour, the organist. The interior of the church presented a handsome appearance, and all of the altars especially the main altar were beautifully decorated.

Veil and Wreath

The women and girls confirmed were dressed in white with the veil and wreath while the men and boys each wore a flower.

The services were concluded with the benediction. Monsignor Robinson of Denver was the celebrant and Fathers Clark and Walsh acted as deacon and sub-deacon. The archbishop of Santa Fe, Father McManemin and his assistants, Fathers Carr[illegible], Campbell and LaFevre were present in the sanctuary assisting Bishop Matz during the confirmation. Out of the class confirmed over 80 were children.

A Large Class

Following are the names of those confirmed last night:

AMUSEMENTS

Hoyt's 'A Texas Steer'

The raising of the curtain at the Opera house this evening will reveal the dooryard of Mr Maverick Brander's house in Texas. Mr Brander is a wealthy cattle owner and his family consists of a wife and daughter. The ladies tire of their rustic home and conceive a desire to shine in society. They have tried to induce the old gentleman to run for congress but he persistently refuses.

At the time the play opens Mr B is away from home and the ladies arrange to have him elected before his return.

The populace met him and announced the fact and insist on his accepting. The scene then shifts to the Arlington hotel, Washington, and the trials the Texan is put to in his endeavor to keep pace with the Washington set draw out some of the best comedy work that the people of this city may expect to witness this season.

The wife and daughter appear in gorgeous raiments cut after the best Texan patterns which are a source of mortification to the gallant captain who is in love with Miss 'Bossy' the daughter and who has promised to introduce them into Washington society. A quarrel takes place in consequence between the lovers, which is not mended until the last act, of course. The congressman meantime gets into innumerable scrapes through his ignorance of the ways of politicians and tricksters. He is followed to Washington by a colored statesman from his district, who is desirous of representing the government in Dahomey, and who meets with the general fate of office-seekers who look for a fat berth right away. An investigating committee from Texas arrives on the scene and creates quite an uproar before they depart satisfied. This is the skeleton of 'A Texas Steer' but there are twenty-five characters in it that contribute to one of the best farce-comedies ever written.

The cast includes such well-known people as James A. Devlin, who has been with Hoyt's attractions for many seasons, and the original Mill G. Bu[illegible] who has been before the public in Hoyt's farces for thirty years. May Bretaine, the charming actress, is the Texan maiden. The full list of the cast is so lengthy that mention of all is impossible, but the [illegible] strongly supports all [illegible] and lacks nothing.

Louis James and Frederick Warde in "Alexander the Great."

"Alexander the Great," which will be presented by Louis James and Frederick Warde next Friday night, is an attractive title for a play even to those who are not too well informed as to his identity. Any one whose fame has earned them the distinction of being called great must have done big things, and the popular impression is that he did very big things and consequently the play mentally suggests scenes of strife and heroism, massive stage pictures with lots of action and many characters, and from accounts this will be all forthcoming in the new play. Managers Wagenhals and Kemper have evidently increased their reputation for lavish attention to scenic equipment in "Alexander the Great." There are six elaborate sets and as was the case in "The Tempest" when they made a feature of the shipwreck, so have they made a feature of the scenes above the clouds in "Alexander the Great," where the commander imagined he had arrived at the end of the world. The scene is laid among the mountain peaks with frowning chasms seen through the jutting crags. The encampment is seen to be situated among the clouds which move hither and thither with the wind. A terrific electric storm adds terror to the already dramatic situation brought about by the plot of the play, and as this abates the clouds begin to rise, snow and sleet descend, this developing into a blinding blizzard. The storm eventually subsides and the exhausted army is cheered by a beautiful sunrise, such as can only be seen in mountain heights. Every mechanical contrivance which could enhance the realism of this scene has been utilized. Other scenes, such as the one showing the siege of the town of Manila with all the implements of warfare, and that depicting the splendor and mysteries of the great Egyptian Temle of Amunon, are only less elaborate. On Saturday evening Julius Caesar will be the offering.

WILL BE KEY NOTE OF BAPTIST CONVENTION THIS WEEK—LEADING MINISTERS OF THE THE STATE TO TAKE PART.

One of the notable gatherings of the week in this city will be that of the Baptist ministers from all parts of the state who will hold the first meeting of their fifteenth annual convention in the First Baptist church this evening at 7:30. The meetings will be held throughout the week, morning, afternoon and evening, including Thursday, when the closing session of the convention will be devoted to general discussions.

The convention will be composed of every Baptist church in the state and some of the most prominent clergymen in Colorado will be in attendance. One delegate for every fifty members will attend the gathering, and it is estimated that about 150 will be present. The question of missions will be the main topic for discussion and "Evangelization of Colorado" will be the watchword of the delegates.

CONTRACT FOR CONSTRUCTION OF CRAGMOR SANITARIUM BEING SOUGHT BY COLORADO SPRINGS FIRMS

Bids for the new $50,000 Cragmor sanitarium have been received by Architect [illegible] MacLaren. Three bids were from Colorado Springs contractors and one from Denver.

The contract however will not be let for about a week because of the delay in receiving the bids for the plumbing and heating.

According to the present plans of the directors the main portion of the sanitarium will be built and later if funds are available three wings each 128 feet long will be added, the whole forming an arc of a circle about 1,000 feet in length.

Robert Gal, John Hill and Benn[illegible] are the Colorado Springs contractors who submitted bids.

CALLS ON CITIZENS FOR FUNDS TO HELP BUILD CHURCH AT OAK AND ST VRAIN STREETS FOR NORTH END WORSHIPERS

The members of the Peoples M. E. church (colored) through their pastor C. W. Williams have issued an appeal for aid to help them pay for a church building. The appeal states that the race have no church north of Pikes Peak avenue and that there are at least [illegible] families now living in the northern part of the city for whom a church is desired. The congregation with the aid of General Palmer have raised $450 which will partially pay for a lot at Oak and St Vrain streets. The pastor hopes to be able to commence building by November 1 and all contributions may be sent to him at 6[illegible] East Dale street. The name of Rev. C. B. Wilcox, pastor of the First M. E. church, is given as reference.

[illegible] LEAD IN OURAY COUNTY

Found Again in a Forsaken Tunnel Near the Summit of White House.

A little over forty years ago, when the Utes were kings in this county of ours and Ouray was not thought of, two prospectors found their way into the basin which is now the "Gem City of the Rockies" and up Oak creek and so on to the flats on the west side overlooking the Uncompangre valley on the one end and the great chain of mountains known as the Continental divide on the other. They camped at a big spring which is still in existence today and furnishing nature's drink to many now working their assessments around and above the Grand View mine. Our prospectors put in their time that summer of 1863 tracing up float and guarding against surprises from the Indians, and were in due time rewarded for the energy and fearlessness by finding near the spring which they had dug out and cleaned around, some very rich gold quartz. For weeks they hunted over the immediate vicinity without success, cooking their meals at night among the rocks to prevent the smoke and glare of the fire being seen by the Indians, whose kick-lups dotted the valley here and there from what is now Box canon to the Grand river. Up to White House and back many times the intrepid gold hunters worked their way, crossing many veins of precious metals, but none of them holding the rich quartz they had found at the springs near their camp. One lucky day, however, they stumbled upon it just peeping out of a big bank of wash, and after digging in what they supposed to be a ledge, the piece found proved to be only a large slice of quartz broken away from the ledge, but was a pointer as to where the ledge was hidden. They started a tunnel through the wash and in a few weeks' time had tunneled in to where the lead cropped out a distance of 40 feet, to the solid formation. Without a saw they chopped and dressed every stick of the timbers needed in the tunnel and with all haste, the blue blaze of Indian summer mantled the hills and the tinted leaves of the quaking aspen and mountain foliage told them of approaching autumn and warned them that winter was but a few weeks away, and the grub supply was nearing a finish. Without powder and by laborious ways they hammered off what quartz they could and finally in despair at the slow progress built a fire up against the quartz, and, heating it to almost a red heat, threw water upon it and secured a hundred pounds or so of the stuff, carrying it in sacks to the spring and washing it in their pan as best they could, after pulverizing it between a hammer and rock. The result was surprising to those two Californians, and they at once decided to go out with what gold they had and bring in provisions for a winter's siege. But man "proposes and the Almighty disposes." In some manner their fire in the tunnel had caught to the timbers and smouldered in the green wood until a few mornings after their clean-up, when a volume of smoke curling heavenward warned them that it was high time for them to vacate if they wished to die within the borders of civilization, and not by the tomahawks of the wild-eyed Utes who had no doubt discovered their presence by the smoke. So, packing one burro with what they needed in the way of grub, and turning one burro loose, they "hiked" it for New Mexico and by good luck reached Mexican shelter with their scalps securely fixed to their heads.

In Shasta county, California, two years ago last spring in a log cabin near the summit of Lassen's peak, a white-haired old prospector lay on his death bed. Attending him was a young man, who, taking pity on the forlorn and friendless man, breathing out the last hours of his life alone, concluded to camp with him and administer to his last wants. One day, in gratitude, the dying man told the young man the story of his adventures in Colorado, describing minutely the incidents connected with the rich discovery of gold on White House mountain beyond the Rock of Ages, giving him a map descriptive of the vicinity in which his prospect was located, indicating the spring and the distance and location of the tunnel from it. He had told him of the Indians driving him and his companion, long since dead, out of the country, and assured the young man that if he could succeed in finding the tunnel it would make him a very rich man when the whites got possession of the country. He described the rugged grandeur of the country and warned the young man of the treachery of the Utes, who swarmed in the Uncompahgre valley. Not long after the old man passed away to that bourne from whence no traveler returns, and our young friend buried his remains under a huge spruce tree near the old cabin. Locking up the cabin next day he turned his face toward Colorado. Arriving at Ouray, instead of hostile Indians, he found the whites in possession, a beautiful city in the basin described to him by the old man, with railroads, telegraph and telephone, churches and schools, big mines and big mills and the hills full of prospectors. He arrived in Ouray in the spring of 1902, and keeping his lips sealed, began his search for the treasure vault. He readily found the spring, but day after day passed and no tunnel or signs of old workings could he find. After searching for several weeks without results he confided his secret to a miner working his assessment on a claim near the spring, who joined him in the search. They went over the ground thoroughly, working their way to the top of White House mountain and back again many times, but in the end the young man returned to California bitterly disappointed. Early last spring he returned and began the search again, but finally during the latter part of August he gave up in despair. Last week a Herald man visited up near the old spring and was told the story by the miner, who does not wish to have his name mentioned. He thinks he has discovered the old tunnel, which has been covered up by the wash and debris of years. Two or three weeks ago, while walking over the old workings, no trace of which were visible, a cane which he carried suddenly penetrated a thin crust, going through the surface into a cavity which has proved to be the mouth of a worn tunnel. As far as the eye could reach charred and rotten timbers were exposed which had been cut and hewn with an ax. Some of them had fallen in, while the mould on the sides proclaimed the find of an abandoned prospect of long ago. Neither ye scribe nor the miner would venture in, but the latter has located the ground and will clean out the tunnel and retimber it. He has the utmost faith that it is the long lost lead and that great riches will fall to his lot. The Herald is with him in best wishes for his success. May there be no barrier to again open the great vein or tomahawkers to worry him in his quest for gold.—(Ouray Herald.

MINES OF GOTHIC

J. H. Judd has made two small shipments of ore for treatment at the Gothic mill from the Bunn Basin and American mines.

The last shipment of the Gothic machinery is now on the ground and the plant should be completed and ready to run by next week.

During the week David H. Lawrence visited the Lake View mine operated by Reinhardt Holloway. He reports that Mr. Holloway certainly has a very encouraging showing and next year we may expect to hear something more from this property.

Several parties and owners of claims in and around Gothic are prosecuting their work with renewed activity since the mill has made a ready market for ores. Many prospects upon which doubtful assessment work has been done for many years are having their full amount done upon them this year.

On the Bon Ton mine at Scofield, Mr. Peters is continuing with the sinking of the main shaft which is now down 220 feet. He is expecting to put in a hoisting engine in place of the present horse whim so as to be able to work through the winter. From the surface down to the present level the mine shows up a strong body of fair grade copper ore which will no doubt in due course find its way to the Gothic smelter.

J. T. Lockwood, superintendent of the Brooklyn Mining company, last week returned from a business trip to New York. He is now at the mine pushing the work of fixing up on the surface in order to continue operations right through the winter. This company is driving a tunnel on the south side of Galena mountain and in its course several minor veins have been met with. There are some very large ledges ahead of them and their pluck and confidence will no doubt be recompensed by the striking of rich and permanent ore bodies. They are now in over 600 feet.—(Gunnison Tribune.

OUR HENS BEAT WORLD

Value of Eggs Greater Than Products of Gold and Silver Mines of Entire Country.

Figures in the department of agriculture at Washington show that the hens of this country can produce more solid wealth than all the gold mines. More than that they produce more than all the gold and silver mines put together.

In order to furnish more definite information about the poultry business Secretary Wilson recently directed one of his men to get together all the facts available regarding the subject. The results of this inquiry present some surprising facts. The figures are largely based on the census returns for 1900, but are supplanted by some investigations made by the department of agriculture statisticians. According to the latest available tables the value of all fowls on farms is $85,794,000. About $15,000,000 is deducted from this sum to represent the fowls under the age of three months, so that the balance embraces the stock that is kept for breeding and laying.

The estimated number of chickens in the country is 250,000,000, producing for market in one year poultry worth $136,000,000 and eggs worth $144,000,000, a total value of about $280,000,000. This represents an income of 400 per cent on a similar investment.

It is found that the poultry and eggs of 1900 outvalued the total exports of animal and animal products during all the year down to and including 1900.

It seems rather strange that the value of the wool product here—which is a matter of much concern in the commercial world and over which many a political battle has been fought—is only about one-third that of the value of the egg product, and who ever heard of a presidential election that was fought on the issue of a duty on eggs?

The poultry and egg products of the United States in 1899 exceeded in value the wheat crop of twenty-eight states and territories. There were produced on the farms of this country in 1899 1,290,000,000 dozen eggs. This amounts to 48,127,000 crates of thirty dozen each. An ordinary refrigerator car which has an average length of about forty-two and one-half feet, holds 400 crates. All this means that a train of these cars sufficient to carry the product of 1899 would be 863 miles long, or long enough to reach from Chicago to Washington and have several miles of cars to spare.

More eggs are eaten in the United States every year than in any other country in the world. Iowa is the banner state in the matter of production, in 1900 furnishing 99,000,000 dozens worth $10,000,000. Ohio came second as to amount, with 91,000,000 dozens, and, although the quantity was smaller than the egg product of Iowa, it was worth more, having a total value of $10,209,000. New York is surpassed by half a dozen states in the matter of egg and poultry production. The value of the poultry raised in New York in 1900 was $6,161,000, and the value of the eggs produced there in the same year was $8,630,000.

The export of eggs in 1900 was the largest in the history of this industry, amounting to 5,000,000 dozens, valued at $984,000.—(Chicago Herald.

Pupils in the second grade are much interested in the pottery they are making in connection with their study of the Indians.

The fifth and sixth grades have been having their second monthly reviews in all studies the past week. Their work shows a marked improvement over that of the preceeding month.

Among the recent visitors were Mrs. Glaze, Mrs. Campbell and daughter, Mr. Burt, Mrs. Sinton, Mrs. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Harger, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Sorenson, Mrs. Lang, Mrs. Crompton, Mrs. Van Pelt, Miss Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Leaf, Mrs. Bullington, Mrs. Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. Burt, Miss Brown, Miss Warner, Mrs. Von Orden, Mrs. Rider, Mr. Page, Mr. Springer, Mr. Pickett, Mrs. Robins, Mr. Bucker, Mrs. Pitman.

LINCOLN SCHOOL.

On Friday afternoons the last fifteen minutes are devoted to general exercises. All the grades gather together in one room, while the children of that grade give a short program—a sort of resume of the month's work, or anything of general interest.

This week all assembled in Miss Pease's room and the fourth and fifth grades gave some of the sun myths showing the aurora of Guido Renis and giving a sketch of his life. The change in the relation of the sun to the earth was touched upon. There were selections from Bryant's "Sower" and the bible story of Joseph and the sheaves. Then various harvest pictures of Millet, Breton, Du Pre and other artists were represented in tableaux. These exercises are thoroughly enjoyed by the children and parents bringing the different grades more closely into touch with each other, and promoting a general feeling of unity and co-operation.

The punctuality has been unusually good during the past month.

Miss Loring, who left our school to attend the art institute in Chicago, called at the school building the past week.

BRISTOL SCHOOL.

During the teachers' meeting held in the Bristol school building last Wednesday afternoon the teachers discussed the problem of how to teach in a manner that will be most lasting, how to teach manliness and womanliness, etc.

With the assistance of some of the pupils the library of more than 800 volumes is being arranged and recatalogued by the Dewey system. The valuable assistance rendered by Mrs. Dunbar of the public library is gratefully acknowledged.

The pupils in the Bristol school and all the other schools of the city are making rapid progress in painting water color pictures of fruits and vegetables under the tuition of Miss Shinn, the supervisor.

Mrs. Johnson was a visitor at the school the past week.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL.

Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Brown have been taking a visiting day and Mrs. Rofinot substituted for them.

Mrs. Thomas G. Horn has presented the school with two fine photogravures. These will be framed and hung as soon as possible.

Tuesday afternoon the girls' basketball team entertained the teachers and pupils with a practice game on the school grounds.

Among the recent visitors were Mrs. Cathcart, Mrs. Coffine and Mrs. Morse.

COLUMBIA SCHOOL.

Among the recent visitors were Mr. Reimers, Mesdames Lightner, McKinney, Connor, Hunter and Humimal.

Miss Taggart of the seventh grade, Lowell, visited in the seventh grade Wednesday.

Miss Van Waggoner of the second grade, Roswell, and Miss Loper of the second grade, Garfield school, visited our second and third grades on Wednesday.

Miss Russell of the fourth grade and Miss Ban of the seventh have had some interesting outdoor lessons.

The sixth and seventh grades are delighted with the manual training work recently taken up in those grades.

Miss Ban, Miss Evans, Miss Murray, Miss Morse and Miss Chamberlain of the Columbia school have all been visiting schools during the past few weeks.

Miss Serf, Mrs. Cockrell, Miss Robinson and Miss Stone have substituted for them.

WHITEPINE NOTES.

The David H. is shipping a carload of ore this week.

Pay day is once more gladdening the hearts of the Akron company's employes.

Louis Carns is hauling logs for a cabin to be built at the Bill Short mine.

Mesdames S. F. Smith and S. M. Phillips spent Sunday with Mrs. Allen of Sargents.

M. C. Smith is working assessments on his various claims near Tomichi.

D. D. Walburn put a force of men to work on the Bill Short property this week.

F. A. Porter is to again open up the old Comstock lode. Sherrod is forcing those who own gold properties north of us to work them or let someone else have them.

Discriminating Ladies

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co. and Robinson Drug Co., special agents.

Give Me Not Too Much Finish.

Give me not too much finish. Let me be
To cold perfection strange, if so I must Refine away the ardor of the soul
And catch the plague of wordy nothingness.
Let me not learn the trick of cunning terms,
That in a careful anguish mince along,
If so I place a barrier to truth,
Or bate the strings of natural eloquence.
There is a primal fury of the mind,
A rich despair, an all-consuming fire,
Won out of knowledge and of vital force,
Born of the heavens and of solitudes:
That let me keep for language with my kind,
For bridge from them to thee, Almighty Love,
O'er the stupendous gulfs of whirling thought;
Nor sell it for the pottage of fine tongues.

Vassar Perfect Fitting Underwear

ELASTIC RIBBED NON-SHRINKING NON-IRRITATING

As you know there is no such thing as non-shrinking wool, but it is possible to weave wool underwear in such a way that the shrinkage will be counteracted by an elastic weave such as is used in Vassar Garments.

Vassar Underwear clings close to the body and yields with every motion thus preventing the possibility of chafing. This fact combined with the fine fleece with which these garments are lined make the Vassar Underwear non-irritating to the tenderest skin.

This Underwear although containing all these excellent qualities, costs you no more than the poor-fitting shrinking kind
